ASSYRIANS FROM PERSIA (IRAN) TO THE UNITED STATES, 1887-1923: ASSYRIAN EDUCATION, AMERICAN MISSIONARIES AND THE SEARCH FOR A HOME

"This exhibit displays a rare set of letters, photographs and objects from the period before genocide and displacement during WWI led to a loss of nearly all documentation about modern Assyrians in the Middle East. These items survived because they were sent out of the region to friends and family living in the United States. Dr. Joseph D. Joseph kept about two hundred letters he had received from family and colleagues between 1887-1923. Written in English and modern Aramaic, the oldest alphabetically written and spoken language in the world, the letters, journals and other items offer research sources for study of the ancestral people of Mesopotamia.
